

"There is more than one way to burn a book.

And the world is full of people running about with lit matches."